Dear People Whom God Loves,

The Jesus Story

The next part of the Jesus story is his suffering and death. It is important for our understanding that we let go of some of the thinking that was prevalent in medieval times. This thinking grew out of the authority structure in place at that time. This was the time of emperors, kings, dukes, barons, and so on.

The seriousness of an offense was determined by the position held by the person offended. The higher the person offended, the greater was the offense. To offend a king was a greater offense than to offend a duke.

So when a "great" one was offended, the offender had to go to great lengths to make up for the offense.

What does this have to do with Jesus? The thinking at the time was that God is offended by sin. (This sounds to me like God was perceived as having an inflated ego. Ponder this image of God: God demands his "pound of flesh.")

Since God is infinite, the offense is infinite. Since we humans are finite, there is nothing we can do to repay God for our offending him by sin.

So it's Jesus to the rescue. Since Jesus is human, he can make recompense for us humans by his suffering and death. Since Jesus is divine, the repayment is infinite. Therefore, God is appeased and we are restored to friendship with God.

Why was Jesus tortured and crucified? Jesus' having proclaimed and lived the reign of God led to his suffering and death. Jesus did not want to suffer and die. The agony in the garden testifies to this. Nor was God pleased by his suffering and death.

Jesus saw that proclaiming and living the reign of God was his mission from Abba. Jesus chose to be faithful to that mission no matter what it cost, and the cost was that in living his mission he made powerful enemies who wanted to do away with him.

"The chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people meanwhile were seeking to put him to death, but they could find no way because so many of the people were hanging on his words."
(Luke 17:47b-48)

Jesus was challenging the religious authorities and calling them to account. He was a prophet, and prophets lay bare uncomfortable truths that people in power want to remain hidden. That is why prophets so often come to an untimely end.

In the mystery of salvation we Christians believe that God works through Jesus' whole life and being. But let us not think of God as wanting Jesus' or anyone else's pain and tragedy.

Can we make some sense of innocent suffering while we believe that God is all powerful and all good?

Some confusion can arise from equating cause as applied to God and cause as applied to people.

Creation and making things are not the same. Creation means making something from nothing. That is different from what we do as people. We people make something out of something else.

More to come.

Smile, God loves you,
Father Clay
